

PROVIDER PROFILE

Katie Hackney, PA-C

Primary Care

Katie Hackney received her Master of Medical Science degree from the Barry University Physician Assistant Program in 2005. She enjoys practicing medicine in Shelton and believes in a team approach to patient care – helping patients make educated and informed decisions about their well-being. She also enjoys the variety of patients seen in a family practice setting and has a passion for preventative care of children and adolescents.

In her spare time, Hackney likes spending time with her husband and three sons – outdoors, when the weather permits. She enjoys running and cycling, as well as many other forms of exercise.
